

ABSTRACT

An optical window is disclosed through which light can be shone to generate a waveform. Windows are hourglass-shaped, to better conform the shape of the windows to the distribution of light intensity. The optical window can be incorporated into a variety of optical devices.

Intel P-12520 Page 8 MJM Do. No. 5038-147